Why Choose Chillex?

The Chillex Group of companies provide a full and complete mechanical service to the heating, ventilating & air-conditioning industry.

Our mission to our clients – Provide a full and complete mechanical service to the air-conditioning industry. Uphold the highest levels of professionalism within the trade. Meet our clients' requirements quickly and efficiently to their satisfaction.

Established in 1995, Chillex Group is ...

Established in 1995, Chillex Group is a medium sized, privately owned company specialising in Mechanical Services and Air-Conditioning. We have found that an open style of management incorporating a weekly staff meeting and a monthly overall progress review best suits the type of flexible company approach we aim to achieve. This ensures that all employee and client feedback is constantly evaluated and updated as required.

Chillex Group company philosophy ...

We feel that an awareness by all Chillex Group staff of our company philosophy will guarantee that we will meet the professional standards of workmanship that you the client expects. Chillex Group has also invested in an ongoing Apprenticeship based training programme (currently four refrigeration apprentices and three HVAC apprentices). We feel that a serious commitment to constantly improving staff skill levels will benefit both our clients and the future of the air-conditioning industry.

- Amstar have known and dealt with Chillex now for 10 years. In that time, we have repeated using them for their professional approach, and problem solving with consultants to give the customer the best outcome. Issues that invariably come up are raised and resolved before confrontation arises. The delivery is always on time, with no shortcuts that may impact on performance. As a main contractor we always ask why can't all subcontractors be like this.
- Chillex are one of only three companies nationwide who are authorised to commission their own projects, this has been made possible by the expertise they have shown in all aspects of their projects from knowledge of the product through value engineering and planning right through to installation and project management.
- I have found Chillex to be very professional in their approach. They are always cooperative and helpful in solving problems, and the "can-do" attitude of Mike Ford and his team are a credit to all projects they have undertaken with our company.
- The Chillex team are always helpful, they are creative, competitive from a pricing perspective and extremely tidy in their work habits. I would have no hesitation in recommending their services for provision of similar services to those outlined above.
